College of Education

Department of Communication Sciences and Special Education

The Department of Communication Sciences and Special Education at the University of Georgia invites applications for the position of Clinical Assistant Professor in Audiology. This individual will serve as the Coordinator of the Audiology Clinic. Individuals with supervisory experience, as well as specialty expertise in cochlear implants and/or tinnitus management are encouraged to apply. The start date is negotiable but ideally would be no later than February 1, 2019.

Responsibilities will include all of the following and other duties:
- Provide direct clinical services and management in the evaluation and habilitation/rehabilitation of hearing disorders for all ages
- Coordinate daily operations of the audiology clinic
- Instruct and supervise speech-language pathology graduate students in clinical practica in the on-campus clinic and off-campus locations
- Teach undergraduate and graduate courses (face-to-face, online, and/or blended) and mentor and advise students, as assigned
- Engage in departmental, college, university, and professional service
- Comply with university, regulatory, and accreditation agency standards

Required Qualifications for this position include all of the following:
- Earned doctorate in audiology (AuD) or a Ph.D. in a closely related field
- Certificate of Clinical Competence in Audiology by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association
- Georgia license in Audiology or license eligible at time of application (Georgia license must be obtained prior to the start date.)

Experience for this position includes:
- Minimum 5 years clinical experience in audiology

Appointment will be for 12 months. Salary will be competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications.

Applications should be submitted through http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/31735 and will require all of the following:
- A letter of application specifically responsive to the position's responsibilities and required qualifications as described above.

- A complete curriculum vitae.
- All undergraduate and graduate transcripts.
- The names of three persons who can provide letters of reference. If the candidate prefers his or her interest in this position to remain confidential, state this request in the list of references; references will then not be contacted until the search committee has corresponded with the applicant.

Questions may be addressed to the search committee chair (Dr. Sandie Bass-Ringdahl, sbassrin@uga.edu).

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Georgia (www.uga.edu) is a land grant/sea grant institution. Its main campus is located in Athens, Georgia. Athens is known for its music, art, and food as well as its accessibility to the Atlanta area (see www.visitathensga.com and www.georgia.gov). The Communication Sciences and Disorders program offers a bachelor's degree, a CAA-accredited master's degree, and the only research doctorate in communication sciences and disorders in Georgia. Information about the full CSSE department can be found at www.coe.uga.edu/csse.

The CSSE department is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter.

 The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

This position is contingent on the continued availability of funding.